Bangladesh identified as key market for Australian Merino Wool by The Woolmark Company

May 21, 2024

The Woolmark Company, the global authority on wool, has identified Bangladesh as a priority market with potential for more wool uptake across the country's robust and thriving textile supply chain.

As part of the company's ongoing work in market, it recently appointed an on-ground Business Development Manager, MD Rezuwanul Islam, who is based in Dhaka.

Along with the identified opportunities for wool in market and Rezuwanul's expertise, the following trends support opportunities of integrating Australia's fine Merino wool into the Bangladesh textile market:

- Sustainability – Wool is a 100% natural and renewable fibre which can add value to blended and poly man-made fibres through spinning and knitting.

Bangladesh's RMG Industry: Embracing Sustainability for a Competitive Advantage

The global apparel landscape is undergoing a significant shift towards sustainability. The EU's "Strategy for Sustainable and Circular Textiles" demands increased use of recycled fibers and eco-friendly manufacturing practices. This presents challenges and opportunities for Bangladesh, the world's second-largest apparel manufacturer.

However, Bangladesh boasts two significant advantages in this new reality: nearly half of its pre-consumer textile waste is pure cotton, the most readily recyclable fiber and its dominance in knitwear production, as knit fabrics are ideal for recycling.

The benefits of a circular textile economy are compelling. Domestically recycled cotton waste can save up to $500 million annually while new markets for recycled textile products present exciting business opportunities, fostering job creation & economic growth.

March 14, 2024

Bangladesh's booming economy is forecast to grow at 6.2% making it the 2nd fastest growing economy among 48 countries.

Despite wage hikes and uncertain global economic trends, industry experts are optimistic due to rising IT demand, decreasing inventories, a shift towards activewear and industry efforts in embracing new opportunities.

Navigating a dynamic global market and evolving consumer demands requires strategic adaptation. Intex Bangladesh 2024 provides a platform to explore and discuss pathways to sustainable and profitable growth.

The Good News:

- Global apparel demand is booming. Growth is being fueled by surging demand in the US due to future elections and new markets like Africa & Latin America.
- Bangladesh is a top choice. Cost competitiveness & investments in higher-value items like activewear is attracting buyers.
